Description The handbook deals with the formation and workings of public religious and charitable trusts in State of Maharashtra and Gujarat governed by the Bombay Public Trusts Act, 1860. It introduces the reader to the various options available to the voluntary organizations for their formation and registration and reasons that led to the enactment of the present Act. It provides the definition the 'Charitable Purposes' and cites various examples for clearer understanding of the definition. It further explains the meaning and objective of the 'doctrine of cypress'. It throws light on the various provisions that the Trusts need to comply for registration. It provides the list of various documents that have to be furnished and other information that have to be provided. It cites the powers and duties of the trustees and the Charity Commissioner. The book also deals with the offences and the penalties due to non-compliance to the provisions given in the Act. The handbook will be extremely helpful for the public trusts in the State of Maharashtra and Gujarat in registering themselves and in complying with the various provisions of the law.
